FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1908.

We are glad that we prepared Rock Hill for it.

Will they come? Oh, yes, they will. They will come—only to their slaughter.

We ought all to work for good cause, so that, when automobiles run over us, we can die on top of the ground.

But then one or the other had to be beaten and it might just as well not have been Chester.

Of course they feel bad now but if they bear up with fortitude they will pull through, and, as we know, they will, for they are a while able to cope with Edgemoor?

Here is the Hatesburg Advocate's estimate of Col. Bryan:

William Jennings Bryan, the great man of the world, is here, and is making his power felt far and wide.

Is not Union about the best place in the state?—Union Times.
No, not exactly. It's next to the best place in the state—Cherokee Gaffney Ledger.

That is for those who can't get to Chester.

Col. Bryan's son-in-law, Artist Mel Leavitt, had a sort of party at his own home, who, we are told, may all Col. Bryan's republican opponents be that as young man is, save the cracks in his skull.

Mr. R. F. Barnette, who lives out on R. F. D. No. 4, killed a very strange bird last Tuesday morning. The bird weighed five and three-quarter pounds and its wings measured four and one-half feet from tip to tip, and measured three feet from the tip of its bill to the tail. The bird, probably a pelican—Rock Hill Herald.

It was a sort of on its way to Rock Hill on a benevolent mission. It ought not to have been killed.

The sheriff of Allen is to be congratulated on the fact that he saved the good name of his office by not allowing a mob that was intent on summary vengeance. He did not allow the mob to have the man they wanted, but he used his own power to save the man. They leave no stone unturned.

It is a rather humiliating commentary upon respect for law that an officer must take his prisoner and run from a mob. Outwitting is better than fighting, but it is a shame that "had the force" it would have been more wholesome to use that instead of his wits.

A POOR ARTICLE.

Professional Ball Players Are Not the Real Thing Just Now.

The Rock Hill Record of 14th says: The League season opened last Monday afternoon before a crowd variously estimated up to 2,000 persons. There were probably a thousand and there.

The opening game was noteworthy for two things—one was that Rock Hill won the game and the other was the exhibition was a mighty poor one, anyway you looked at it. "Doc" McFadden and Wesley Anderson could put out on the field, but they were not. Gunter's Ginger Snaps, in their present form, "skinned a mile." Apat's was no joke. The truth of the matter is that it was a miserable, miserably weak in several positions.

There needs to be some radical shifting if Rock Hill expects to put up anything like the real article. Rock should get off first base and go out in the garden where he belongs. He is not doing himself or the team justice by staying in the box. The game Monday was a loose-jointed one in a good many ways. There was absolutely no head-work shown by our team—and it was a miracle that we won, that miracle being the effective work of James, who turned the game with a three bagger, and Mathews, who did the same thing in the box, as well as putting the ball over the right field fence for a home run. The score was 6 to 6, and it was reported in the Rock Hill error column was: Rock Hill 4, Chester 2. The writer saw one Rock Hill man make errors alone. Maybe the scorer got tired and scribbled the wrong score. The game Tuesday afternoon was a fiasco. The local team could not pitch, nor field, nor bat. Results 9 to 6. The Chester team did not work. The only redeeming feature was the good head work of the Chester team. As a matter of fact, Rock still got the game in the third half of the first inning, and the local never had the ghost of a chance to lead off. Caldwell's man. Rock Hill made an error.

That also little kindergarten set him on the "hot ball" was editing—charming to those who had paid to see a ball game.

Of course one swallow does not make a summer.

The third game with Chester, which was taken by them by a score of 9 to 6, was a fine exhibition of baseball.

The line-up for Rock Hill was entirely different from the previous days. Gunter went to the field and Wesley Anderson, the "hot ball" player, went to the bat, and Brown, who got hurt last Saturday, took charge of 3rd base.

The game was fast and snappy from start to finish, although an accident, two of Chester's players running to get a ball, damaged the game considerably and delayed the game for a while, and shortly after that Mr. T. A. Crawford, Jr., who was playing the second stand, from some cause or another, fainted—which caused some little excitement.

The batter for Chester were Temple and Miller, and for Rock Hill Crook and Anderson. Time 1 hour and 45 minutes.

"Pat" Wylie, of this city, who has been catching for Chester this season, will take over the bat for Rock Hill at Chester today.

Vasholder's work on first and Anderson's work behind the bat, and the Rock Hill team Wednesday made Chester take notice.

Chester has good, smooth playing, excellent ball players, and they work together like a machine.

DR. A. MORGAN CARTLEDGE.

A Native of Chester County, who had risen to distinction in Surgery.

Dr. A. Morgan Cartledge, known in his boyhood to many of our readers, died in Louisville, Ky., on the 14th inst. He was a son of the late Rev. Mr. Cartledge, who lived at Rockville and later near Mr. Prospect. Both of the parents of the deceased are buried at Rockville in the yard of the old Church of the Episcopate, now owned and occupied by Mr. R. A. Nagels. Mrs. R. S. Crockett, of Richmond, is a sister. The doctor-journal gives the following about Dr. Cartledge:

Dr. Cartledge was the son of a Baptist minister in South Carolina, who died many years ago. He came to Louisville when about 15 years of age and immediately took up the study of medicine at the Hospital College of Medicine. He was graduated by his professors as one of the brightest pupils who ever attended the school, and they predicted for him a brilliant future.

After he was graduated from the Hospital College of Medicine, Dr. Cartledge began his professional career as a general practitioner. He did not continue such very long, however, as his skill as a surgeon won for him enough of such work to keep him. He finally decided to make a specialty of surgery, and after that devoted his entire time to that line of practice.

He was no physician in the south, and but few in the entire country ranks higher in surgery than did Dr. Cartledge. He probably performed more difficult operations than any other surgeon in the south, and he was successful with any other one. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the State Medical Society, and the Louisville Medical Society. He was also a member of the hospital commission named by Mayor James C. Grinstead recently to devise plans and suggestions for a new city hospital.

Although Dr. Cartledge was 40 years of age, he looked to be a much younger man. He carried himself with grace and was of splendid physique. He was agreeable and pleasant at all times, and was held in the highest esteem by his colleagues. He was a member of the Pandemonium and Tavern club, and also of the County Club.

For twelve years Dr. Cartledge and Dr. R. Lindsay Ireland had been associated in the practice of surgery, their offices being in the Athens building.

DRURY'S BLUFF.

Account of That Moody Battle and some Gallant Deeds of Individuals.

Editor The Lantern: As I have been gratified upon my many visits to your office by the interest of your county to write for your admirable paper an account of the battle of Drury's Bluff fought on the 10th day of May, 1901. I have reluctantly consented to do so, and to the best of my ability, I have written this before you, that cause the most careful of memory and story for ever. So allow me to ask your indulgence while I describe, to the best of my feeble memory and by the aid of a few records I have on my desk the part played by the 7th S. C. battalion in the bloody battle of Drury's Bluff.

Forty-four years ago this bloody but victorious battle was fought. Your article on that fatal day was just, quite a youth. (1) The 6th of May Hagood's brigade, of which the 7th battalion was a part, arrived in the city of Petersburg from the coast of South Carolina. Gen. Butler, of the Federal army, landed a force of about 30,000 of all arms at Drury's Bluff on the 6th of May. He pushed his forces out and cut the Richmond and Petersburg road at Port Waltham on the morning of the 6th. Hagood's brigade arrived in the city about midday of the 6th. We hurriedly pushed out to the field, where there was heavy fighting all the morning. We arrived just in time to join in the about-to-be victory and see the enemy disappearing through the woods. They rallied, however, and in a few days advanced and attacked our line on the banks of Swift creek on the 9th, when they were again repulsed with heavy loss.

After this fight the enemy fell back to and occupied their works near Drury's Bluff. We followed them up and entrenched our brigade just in their front. They were not to be driven away and night till the final blow came on the morning of the 10th. Hagood's brigade occupied the line of breastworks to the left of the turnpike. The enemy was on this side of the river. The breastworks were the defense of the flank of Drury's Bluff and consisted of a line of breastworks in a line. Opposite the crossing of the turnpike were some houses used as an apple orchard. For several days before the battle, Hagood's brigade occupied the post of honor, supporting Fort Stevens, on the second line of entrenchments. Here they endured a special hardship, and after that devoted his entire time to that line of practice.

He was no physician in the south, and but few in the entire country ranks higher in surgery than did Dr. Cartledge. He probably performed more difficult operations than any other surgeon in the south, and he was successful with any other one. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the State Medical Society, and the Louisville Medical Society. He was also a member of the hospital commission named by Mayor James C. Grinstead recently to devise plans and suggestions for a new city hospital.

taken by any command than that made by the 7th battalion on the 10th of May, 1901. Its loss was probably more than any regiment sustained in any one battle.

Retired to the trenches, the brigade rallied and soon succeeded in driving the enemy from the second line of works and the field was won. The enemy left their artillery and the field covered with their dead and wounded. We pressed them to the river and in a few days they crossed the James and joined Grant near Richmond.

Now, Mr. Editor, in conclusion, though I dislike to indulge in personal feelings, I wish to tell of a few brave deeds performed by brave men while engaged in this bloody struggle.

Just as the line came in contact with the wires mentioned above and the men were thrown to the ground, the brave and gallant Lieut. Wm. A. Harvey, of Co. E, seeing the situation, sprang to his feet waving his sword and yelling, "Forward, my brave boys. We will take that battery or die!" Poor fellow! just one month later, while leading a skirmish line against a batt of Federal soldiers on "Harris' Hill," he fell never to rise again.

On teaching and occupying the enemy's outer line of works, Col. Nelson, while rapidly passing among the lines, cried out, "Major Rion, hold these works at all hazards." The major replied, "I will do it, sir." As the firing again began, Major Rion leaped upon the parapet, which exposed him from the belt up, ordered privates Scott and McDaniel to load their guns for him and in five minutes as fast as they could be loaded. They loaded and handed up to him for twenty minutes. He was ordered down by Col. Nelson, "I made it but for them, Colonel," was his reply.

Just as the Federal lines were giving way and their men fleeing to the rear, the brave and gallant Lieut. Jack Pate, of Co. E, leaped upon the captured works saying, "They are fleeing boys. Let us capture them or die!" He was ordered down by Col. Nelson, "I made it but for them, Colonel," was his reply.

It is to be regretted that the memory of this gallant soldier is not better known. He was a brave and gallant soldier, and his death was a great loss to the army. He was a brave and gallant soldier, and his death was a great loss to the army.

Disciplinary Board Gives Report.

Columbia, May 11.—The state disciplinary commission, after a meeting this afternoon on the advice of the attorneys for the commission, decided to comply with the request of the order of Judge Pritchard and to give the bond of $175,000 in that order granting a supersedeas on that condition. It may be recalled that the original order signed by Judge Pritchard and a bond of $250,000 was required, and also that the commission deposit with the court the bond of $175,000 by the commission as security for the money deposited in the various banks in this state, but last week Judge Pritchard made an order and struck out the requirements as to the collateral.

It may be recalled that the United States supreme court it was thought best to comply with the modified order, inasmuch as the attorneys considered that nothing is to be lost, thereby. The bond was executed this afternoon, the entire amount being taken up by the state of South Carolina, through the Guaranty Company, through the Columbia agent, Mr. John H. Bollo. It was decided to place the whole amount of the bond in the hands of the Guaranty Company for the purpose of convenience.

THE SMART LITTLE TOUCHES THAT MAKE HIGH ART CLOTHING SMART

NOT ONLY is High Art Clothing fashioned after smart models, with a subtle style and grace in every line and curve, but it also is characterized by those nobly little conceits which one usually expects to find in high-class, custom-tailored garments only. For instance, among this Spring's models are coats with fancy cuffs, slanted pockets, vents, the long lapel, the concaved shoulder so as to give a broad effect, the creased side seams, the belt straps, and all the latest tailoring fads that bespeak smartness and metropolitan perfection of style and cut.

No wonder the man who has the habit of getting the most for his money wears HIGH ART CLOTHING. We are Exclusive Agents in Chester.

Tribute to Mrs. Crosby.

Again God has taken from us and from our earthly union one of our members, Mrs. D. P. Crosby. The circle has not been broken for quite a long time, and of this reason we feel the absence of this dear one all the more keenly. This death reminds us, too, that our place in the union will some time be vacant because of our answer to the call God. We rejoice, however, that while her place is vacant among us her influence for good endures, yet abides, and with abiding. We feel the absence of this dear one all the more keenly. This death reminds us, too, that our place in the union will some time be vacant because of our answer to the call God. We rejoice, however, that while her place is vacant among us her influence for good endures, yet abides, and with abiding.

We commend the bereaved family to the God of all goodness, expressing to them our loss and sorrow, and praying for them the richest blessings of Heaven.

As a matter of faith and comfort, we are assured that she who was with us now serves in that realm, where Jesus and His Kingdom are unshaken.

Her works do follow her. "Let her own works praise her," for that is the only praise which is immortal.

The Motto on the Coin.

Washington, May 12.—The senate committee on finance today voted unanimously to report the bill already passed by the house providing for the permanent restoration of the words "In God We Trust" to gold and silver coins of the United States. The motto is to be inscribed on the obverse of the coins by order of the president.

Stop the Strenuous Life

Weakens the Tissues and Lessens the Vigor of Life.

The stress and strain of the strenuous life in both city and country tends towards constant troubles. Five people suffer today where one did ten years ago with sick headache, dizziness, nervousness, and the many other symptoms of overwork.

All who are suffering with stomach troubles, indigestion, and the many other symptoms of overwork, would have been benefited by the use of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Stomach and Bowel Tablets.

BASE BALL. Rock Hill Wins From Chester. Yesterday afternoon Chester lost the first game of the series to the Catawbas, before an immense crowd. The game was a close one, with the home team leading for a while and then Chester. In the last part of the eighth inning, with the score standing 2 to 3 in favor of Rock Hill, Miller lined out a clean two batter scoring two men, then came the big boy, Temple. With two men on base and the second, he drove the ball far into the right field for a home run, making the score 2 to 6 in favor of Chester, but in the ninth inning Rock Hill made three more runs thereby winning the game.

Yount, Sheppard and Bell did the pitching for Chester. For Rock Hill Matthews pitched a good game. The features of the game were Temple's home run, a catch of which seemed sure for a hit by Newman, for Chester, batting of Gunter for Rock Hill.

Church Building for Fords.

The people interested in the preaching station at Ford's School House have bought the old Owen store building and have set out and will use the lumber for building a church. It is good lumber and will give them a good house at small cost. The Rev. A. H. Atkins is very grateful to the town people who contributed so liberally to the cause, and he believes that the hand of Providence is to be plainly seen guiding the movement all along.

Armenia School.

A large crowd of friends met at the Masonic Hall, Armenia, to witness the closing exercises of the 14th and flourishing school of Armenia, May 8th at 3 o'clock. The children proved themselves most carefully taught by their capable and accomplished teacher, Miss Fernie Moore. All present enjoyed the evening.

Whiskey Advertisements.

We have received several very flattering offers from whiskey houses for advertising space, and last week we had a letter from a prominent advertisement leader offering to pay well for space in our paper. A BAG OF GOLD AND SILVER AND A NICE RESIDENCE LOT WILL BE GIVEN AWAY AT THE

of 60. of the most desirable residence lots to be had in the thriving town of CHESTER, S. C., on

FRIDAY, MAY 22, '08

1.30 P.M. DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND

This property has been consigned to us by Messrs J. R. Alexander and Auburn Woods, of Chester, S.C., with instructions to sell every lot at a public sale, for the high dollar, and as sure as you live every lot will go, absolutely regardless of price and without reserve.

Follow the crowd and come out to this great gathering of business men and homeseekers, who desire a safe, conservative investment, and on their own easy terms.

The sale will be conducted by Penny Brothers, the twin auctioneers of the company, who speak at the same time and in the same tone of voice and sell you lots at the rate of one a minute, your price is theirs, let us make or lose. There is not a man who cannot look back some years and see what he would have been worth today if he had just bought real estate in Chester. Ten years from today you will be crying that same old song if you do not grasp this grand opportunity to get a piece of your own town, at your own price, and on your own terms.

The property is located on one of the Main Streets of Chester, S.C., and is only a matter of some three blocks from the public square and business center of the town. It has granolithic sidewalks, large streets, etc., and many other natural advantages and improvements that will make it desirable alike to the homeseeker and investor.

Don't forget that the date is May 22, 1908, the day Friday, the hour is 1.30 P.M., and the town is Chester, S.C., one of the best on the map, and don't fail to attend.

Ladies are cordially invited to this sale and their comfort will be looked after.

Slender vs. Bunchy Women.

There's some what like the slender kind what's graceful as the willer, But I prefer a woman with a form that's like a pillar.

The comfortable, bunchy ones with chins that's sort of double. A woman with a chin like that ain't never huntin' trouble.

You find too, when they're good and plump they're tender and forgiving. An' then their weight is evidence they're fonder of good livin'.

I never did go much on bones, at though I never tried 'em. Unless they've got two hundred pound or so of flesh to hide 'em.

I don't believe much in looks; these 'ere gals that's so good lookin' Ain't never with a hill o' beans when it comes down to cookin'.

Some likes 'em young, but me, I don't. I always did consider They're better muddled-aged. I've no objection to a widder.

Not too durned smart. The smartness in a woman ain't my idy-- Jest smart enough to cook good meals an' keep the house up tidy.

This marryin' is scary work, but still I'd know that I wasartin' of good pie and decent biscuit.

Of pork an' beans an' beef an' greens cooked so a man could eat 'em. Then two, great, conformation an' it's pretty hard to beat 'em.

You fill me up with beef an' greens-- cooked right without no resin-- An' I'd hug my wust enemy an' give the best my bloodstain.

I ain't romantic? That may be. I don't make no pretensions. But when it comes to women I will take the large dimensions.

School Bonds Exempted.

Within the past few months a large number of school districts in the several counties of the state have voted bonds for school building purposes. This has been due in part to the efforts of the School Improvement Association and also to the work of those in charge of the high school appropriation of $2,000 given by the general assembly for two years. At the last session an important act was passed exempting these school bonds from taxation. This will doubtless increase the interest in school building. The act says:

"Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of South Carolina That all bonds hereafter issued or sold by the trustees of any school district, or school districts, pursuant to the vote of the majority of the qualified voters of such school district or school districts, voting at an election heretofore or hereafter held for the erection of buildings, for equipment, for maintaining public schools in such district or districts, shall be exempt from all taxation for state, county, municipal or school purposes."—The State.

After hand this man could not get. His health was not as it should be. He had not used the "best" yet. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. J. J. Stringfellow.

Adenoids.

The newest slogan of the educators is "Look out for the adenoids!" Some of the more radical of our pedagogues claim that these growths are accountable for three-fourths of the so-called backwardness in school children, and the first thing that a physician asks when a stunted and undeveloped youngster is brought to him for examination is, "Has the child ever been examined for adenoids?" These growths affect primarily the cavity lying at the back of the nasal passages, directly above the soft palate, and may make their appearance in early infancy. The region affected is the seat of two of three tonsils, of which the other two are visible in the lower throat. These organs, together with the appendix, are physiological puzzles, as they are physical superfluities.

The result is that the air passages through the nose are shut off, the child resorts to mouth-breathing, goes about all the time with the mouth half open, which imparts a look of general stupidity, and very frequently really becomes stupid. —Detroit News.

The dispute in Rock Hill over selling the High School property to Winthrop college has at last been settled, unless there be an appeal from the decision of the trustees, who have voted 4 to 3 to sell for $20,000.

What the Kidneys Do.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every thirty minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they ensure about 50 grains of impure matter daily, when unwell they may pass out 500 grains of impure matter daily. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

J. Henry Chamberlain, at Fort Porter, N. Y., writes: "I was suffering from severe pain in the small of my back and loins, which kept me in misery. In the morning upon first arising, I was often so lame and sore that I could hardly get about. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured them at the Chester Drug Co., and it required but one of these pills to give me a complete cure. I gave a statement recommending this remedy on April 30, 1903, and am proud to say that I have had little or no trouble with my kidneys since. I know Doan's Kidney Pills to be a very reliable remedy, and am pleased to recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBride Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Efforts to Adjourn Congress.

Washington, May 9.—Strong efforts will be made, it is said, to have Congress adjourn not later than two weeks from today. Representative Tawney announces that the House committee on appropriations, of which he is chairman, will begin work on the general delivery bill today, and that he will try to report the measure by next Thursday. The bill is next to the last of the big appropriations bills, and it will probably go through the House without much discussion.

The public buildings bill will be reported by the committee on buildings and grounds as soon as Chairman Bartshoff is sure of a right of way for it. It is conceded that this measure will be rushed through the House. A leader in the Senate and an important member of the finance committee is quoted as saying that Congress would be able to adjourn on May 15. The only legislation which he thought probable outside of the appropriations was a child labor bill for the district and possibly a campaign publicity bill and an emergency currency bill.

Methodist Conference at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., May 9.—The event of prime interest in today's session of the quadrennial convention of the Methodist church was the presentation by Chairman John F. Gough of the committee on federation, of a report which recommends that the conference appoint a committee of three to consist of a layman, a minister and a layman to convey to the Methodist Protestant General Conference about to convene in Petersburg, an invitation to that body to unite with the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, to the end, to use the wording of the report, "that as one great Methodist body they and we may, by doing better our individual commissions by preventing the waste of rivalry and exalting the road of peace." The resolution under the rule was taken on the table for action next week.

While nothing official has been given out on the subject it is understood that the committee, having that part of the address of the bishops under consideration will report adversely to the recommendation looking to the elimination of certain words in the paragraph of church discipline dealing with amusements, there having developed great opposition to any change in that portion of the discipline.
